Perfect Plastic Dice

First we created, then we refined, and released our Zucati Elemental™ metal dice. Dice machined by hand in multiple metals and alloys to be the most refined, best made metal dice ever created. With the success of this line we've created the same dice, in plastic. Transferring all our research and technology from our metal dice to plastic is easier said than done, but with our Zucati Perfect Plastic™ dice we've succeeded.

Our Perfect Plastic™ dice are molded using our metal dice and the resulting dice are the best ever created for role playing and tabletop gaming.

Take a look at any of your current sets of dice you own. You'll see the same thing, regardless of manufacturer, age, style, numbering or material.

They are not well proportioned. Some dice are larger than others. Some smaller, and many radically different across the 7-10 piece set. This difference means that not only are the dice vastly different weights, but they all feel very different in your hand right before you roll.

This causes a huge disparity between the force required to roll each die type and therefore causes inconsistency and poor rolling. That last die you rolled that shot across the table or bounced out of your rolling tray, or missed the dice tower opening? That's bad dice proportion in action.

In addition to the rolling disparity there's also the visual and hand-feel issues which come into play when rolling dice that are poorly proportioned. They just don't feel good in your hand when rolling and that discomfort means you won't be rolling as well as you could. Less accurate, less consistent and always worse than if you used properly proportioned dice.
